PROGRAM OVERVIEW:

As widely reported, Governor Cuomo has asked the state Department of Health and Attorney General Letitia James to conduct an investigation of the state's long-term care facilities in connection with the COVID-19 pandemic. Data shows that nursing homes consistently served as "hot zones" in the spread of the virus, despite the efforts of caregivers to keep patients safe and families fully informed.

The scrutiny of regulators and investigators could put facilities at risk of having their operating certificate suspended or revoked. In this environment, home operators must take a proactive approach. Assuming that you're doing the best you can and that investigators will see that isn't enough. Our attorneys will discuss best practices for mitigating risk while cooperating fully with any investigative requests.

OUR SPEAKERS:

TERRY FLYNN, ESQ., a former presidentially appointed United States Attorney for the Western District of New York and now a Harris Beach partner with their Government Compliance and Investigations Group. He represents businesses and individuals across industries in both civil and criminal government investigations which include conducting internal corporate probes and independent monitorships. Terry also litigates on behalf of a diverse array of clients among the Fortune 50 and large privately held companies, including Walmart, Facebook, United/Continental Airlines and the Buffalo Sabres.

HEIDI SCHULT GREGORY, ESQ. serves as the Harris Beach managing partner in the Rochester office and a leader of their Long-term Care focus area. She is an experienced litigator, and represents hospitals, health care providers, nursing homes, residential treatment facilities, physician groups, licensed professionals, vendors and insurance companies in state court and before administrative panels and quasi-judicial tribunals. Heidi advises healthcare organizations on federal and state compliance matters, governmental audits and investigations, risk management, patient privacy laws and cybersecurity, medical staff credentialing, professional disciplinary matters, medical ethics, telemedicine, institutional review boards, clinical trials and protection of human research subjects and day-to-day operational and contracting needs.
