Carole DeBonte | Morrison Living

As we watch the impact of the pandemic on the senior living industry, particularly in regard to safety, isolation, and financial stability, Morrison Living is concentrating on what we do best: providing the highest performing dining and hospitality services. We've relied on our 40 years of experience in serving older adults and our great relationships with our partners to share best practices and create custom operating procedures in response to COVID-19. Are you trying to put the genie back in the bottle? There will come a time when we WILL see the pandemic in the rearview mirror. The speed and depth of the disruption in senior living due to COVID-19 is transformational. The "genie is out of the bottle" and efforts to put it back will not be successful. The time is now for a new direction. You now have the chance to re-imagine or re-start your dining hospitality program; knowing you only have ONE chance to safely get it right.
