PROGRAM OVERVIEW:

Quality Assurance requirements for Assisted Living may not be new, but the Department of Health has indicated that providers will need to make their Quality Assurance programs more robust with new regulatory requirements.

In this session, attendees will learn how to operationalize their Quality Assurance Plans by implementing a Quality Assurance Committee to help make QA work for them. The presenter will provide insight on tips for implementing a Committee that will help facilities with regulatory compliance as well as infection control.

Attendees will:

- Gain a better understanding of the intent behind requiring a more comprehensive Quality Assurance program*
- Recognize who needs to be included in the QA Committee and how to best leverage these resources*
- Understand how routine Quality Assurance meetings create less work – not more*

TARGET AUDIENCE:

Administrators, Executive Directors, Nursing Staff, Rehabilitation Professionals, and other Interdisciplinary Team Members
